Procedure 15: Expired Registration Listing

Procedure Statement

This purpose is to establish the administrative procedures for posting the expired registration listing from the E-Licensing system.

Procedure:

Posting the Expired Registration Listing on the Board Website |

1. The list of expired registrants will be generated from the e-Licensing system on the first work day of February and the first work day of July of every year.
2. This list of expired registrants will be posted, alphabetically, on the Board website under the "Expired License" link.
3. This list will be updated, monthly at a minimum, until after the first Board meeting date following the last expiration period.
4. This list will be posted on the Board website for a period of one year, in accordance with the records retention schedule for the destruction of renewal materials for the Sanitarian Registration Board.

Note: After the first Board meeting after the expiration date, the list will not be updated to remove any registrant since a registrant's status can be verified under the "License Verification" link on the Board website.

IS-704 NIMS Communications and Information Management

Course Overview

This interactive computer-based course introduces you to the Communications and Information Management component of the National Incident Management System (NIMS). NIMS provides a consistent nationwide template to enable all government, private-sector, and nongovernmental organizations to work together during domestic incidents. Effective emergency management and incident response activities rely on flexible communications and information systems that provide a common operating picture to emergency management/response personnel and their affiliated organizations. Establishing and maintaining a common operating picture and ensuring accessibility and interoperability are the principal goals of the Communications and Information Management component of NIMS. Properly planned, established, and applied communications enable the dissemination of information among command and support elements and, as appropriate, cooperating agencies and organizations.

Course Objectives

At the end of this course, students will be able to:

- Identify the components of NIMS Communications and Information Management.
- Identify capabilities required to achieve effective communications and information management.
- Assess the communications and information management capability of your jurisdiction or agency.
- Describe processes and forms for managing incident information flow.
- Identify strategies for continually improving communications and information management systems and maintaining their readiness.

Primary Audience

Individuals with emergency management responsibilities including prevention, preparedness, response, recovery and mitigation.

IS-703.a NIMS Resource Management Course

Course Description

This course introduces resource management as described in the National Incident Management System (NIMS), and shows how systems for managing resources can be used to improve incident response. The course includes examples of best practices, lessons learned, and job aids to assist the participant in planning for resource management.

The course includes the following lessons:

- Lesson 1: Resource Management Overview
- Lesson 2: Resource Management Planning
- Lesson 3: Resource Typing & Readiness
- Lesson 4: Resource Management During Incidents
- Lesson 5: Resource Management & Complex Incidents
- Lesson 6: Course Summary

Note: IS-703.a is an updated version of the IS-703 course. The update version of the course includes expanded content about resource typing. If you have successfully completed IS-703, you may want to review the new version of the course, especially lesson 3. For credentialing purposes, the courses are equivalent.

Course Objectives

At the conclusion of this course, you should be able to:

- Establish systems for describing, inventorying, requesting, and tracking resources.
- Activate these systems prior to and during an incident.
- Dispatch resources prior to and during an incident.
- Deactivate or recall resources during or after incidents.

Primary Audience

Federal, State, tribal, and local emergency managers; first responders to include incident commanders from all emergency management disciplines; private industry personnel responsible for coordination activities during a disaster; and voluntary agency personnel.

Prerequisites

IS-702.a – National Incident Management System (NIMS) Public Information SystemsCourse Date

11 June, 2010

Course Description

The National Incident Management System (NIMS) provides a consistent nationwide template to enable all government, private-sector, and nongovernmental organizations to work together during domestic incidents. This includes public information.

The public information systems described in NIMS are designed to effectively manage public information at an incident, regardless of the size and complexity of the situation or the number of entities involved in the response.

Note: IS-702.a is an updated version of the IS-702 course. If you have successfully completed IS-702, you may want to review the new version of the course. For credentialing purposes, the courses are equivalent.

Course Objectives

The goal of this course is to facilitate NIMS compliance by providing you with the basic information and tools that you need to apply NIMS public information systems and protocols during incident management.

At the conclusion of this course, you should be able to:

- Define NIMS public information systems to include onsite operations, the Joint Information System (JIS), and the Joint Information Center (JIC), and how they relate to each other.
- Describe the JIS/JIC process of gathering, verifying, coordinating, and disseminating information by public information and incident management personnel.
- Identify each agency involved in given emergency situations and the role of each in the JIS to ensure appropriate situational awareness information is communicated to the public.
- Define key terms related to public information systems to include the relationship with multiagency coordination systems and the field.

Identify typical resource requirements for public information systems.

Primary Audience

This course is designed for local and State public information officers.

Prerequisites

N/A. However, completion of IS 700.a – National Incident Management System (NIMS), An Introduction is recommended.

IS-701.a NIMS Multiagency Coordination System (MACS) Course

Course Overview

This course introduces Multiagency Coordination (MAC) Systems as described in the National Incident Management System (NIMS), and shows how these systems can be used to improve incident response. MAC Systems consist of a combination of elements: personnel, procedures, protocols, business practices, and communications integrated into a common system. After taking this course, you should be able to improve the overall coordination with, and support for, incident management by developing and operating within MAC Systems.

While this course discusses the Incident Command System (ICS), it is not a substitute for ICS 400, Advanced ICS Command and General Staff—Complex Incidents.

Note: IS-701.a is an updated version of the IS-701 course. If you have successfully completed IS-701, you may want to review the new version of the course. For credentialing purposes, the courses are equivalent.

Course Objectives

This course will describe to participants the components of a MAC System and establish relationships between all elements of the system. After taking the course, students should be able to:

- Define multiagency coordination at the local, tribal, State, and Federal levels of government.
- Define key terms related to Multiagency Coordination (MAC) Systems.
- Identify typical priorities established between elements of the MAC System.
- Describe the process of acquiring and allocating resources required by incident management personnel related to the entire MAC System.
- Identify potential coordination and policy issues arising from an incident: relative to the entire MAC System.

Primary Audience

Federal, State, tribal, and local emergency managers; first responders to include incident commanders from all emergency management disciplines; private industry personnel responsible for coordination activities during a disaster; and voluntary agency personnel.

Prerequisites

N/A. However, completion of IS 700.a, National Incident Management System (NIMS), An Introduction is recommended.

IS-230.a Fundamentals of Emergency Management

Course Overview

The revised and renamed Fundamentals of Emergency Management course introduces the fundamentals of emergency management as an integrated system, surveying how the resources and capabilities of all functions at all levels can be networked together in all phases for all hazards. It is one in the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Professional Development Series.

This course was previously titled "Principles of Emergency Management." The title was changed to reflect the content and intent of the course. Persons who previously took Principles of Emergency Management (IS 230) are not be required to take Fundamentals of Emergency Management and will be given credit toward completion of the series for either.

Course Objectives

At the conclusion of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Explain the all-hazard emergency management process that integrates the resources of local, tribal, State, and Federal governments and voluntary and business assets.
- Explain the local, tribal, State, Federal, and individual and family roles in emergency management.
- Explain what individuals and families can do to protect themselves in emergencies.
- Describe the elements of an emergency management program.
- Discuss the role of individuals and organizations, as well as their relationships with one another, in emergency management.
- Explain the importance of networking to emergency management.
- Explain the social, political, and economic implications of a disaster.
- Describe alternate models for organizing emergency management programs.

Primary Audience

This entry-level course is designed for individuals new to the field of emergency management or persons with a desire to understand the fundamentals of emergency management.

Prerequisites

While there are no prerequisites for this course, it is recommended that persons taking this course also take IS 700a (National Incident Management System, an Introduction) and IS 800b (National Response Framework, an Introduction).

Course Length

The length of this course varies according to an individual's reading and study styles. There are approximately 200 pages, including activities and knowledge checks in this downloadable course.

Flexible Delivery Format

While the updated independent study is available now, course materials for delivery of the course in classroom are being prepared. When ready, these materials will be posted in this location in the flexible delivery format so that instructors can offer Fundamentals of Emergency Management as a classroom course.
